Take a look around in the classrooms, take a peek in the Galley or the cafeteria—what do you see? Students. But they are not just college students, they are also individuals.

These students are individuals of different mind-sets, styles and personalities. If you ask around, all students have their own story to tell about their college experience. All these students together make up the university.

For some students, college is a time for spiritual and intellectual growth as well as a time to build lasting relationships. And for all it is the opportunity to obtain a quality education to prepare to enter the changing job market.

It's all about you

Many say

In The News

The events of the world have their affect on CSU students.

Some Midwestern students were affected by the flooding, either experiencing it themselves or having relatives affected.

Some local students are affected by the Navy Base closing, with friends and family having to find new work or relocate. The local economy has been impacted with graduating students looking for work in a saturated local job market. In order to help, CSU has started a scholarship to help ease the financial burden on some students affected by the Navy Base closing. Director of Financial Aid Ellen Green, explains, "If a student or their parents are employed by the Navy Base and they have their RIF (Reduction In Force) notice, then they will qualify for a scholarship of $1000 in addition to the other aid that they are re-

In addition Adrian Grimes in career services is trying very hard to help students find jobs, before and after graduation. She advises, "You have to learn how to set your resumes aside from the other zillions of resumes that are going to be received by employers. You have to be creative and use strategies to get jobs today, because of the downsizing of companies and the tight economy."

On campus the new University Park has been a success. It gives students the alternative to spend their free time outdoors if they do not want to go to the Galley or one of the parlors.

In sports, the new Division I-AA standing for CSU football and the new women's soccer team have changed the look of CSU.

Assistant Athletic Director Kevin Shealy and Tommy Geisel build new stands in the football stadium.

Lt. William K. Harris, a native of South Carolina, has enrolled in CSU's degree program due to the Naval Base closure. Harris is completing his degree in business administration.

Kathryn Montgomery reads the news that Michael Jordan, star of the Chicago Bulls basketball team, resigned from the NBA. Many students were stunned after the early October announcement.

Lori Moot's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Kanel of Humboldt, Nebraska, were victims of the Summer of '93 Midwest floods. The Kanel bridge over the Nemaha River was damaged in the flood. Moot is a freshman from Ft. Myers, Fla.

After a long day of moving, Jeff English dines with family.

Sharon Kelly, Tracy Grant and Keisha Carter enjoy the luau.

Breaking Barriers

"Breaking Through the Barriers" was the 1993 theme for Orientation. The theme was chosen because of the many tensions and barriers that new students have to overcome.

The Orientation committee, resident assistants and hall directors were involved in moving people in, making new students feel at home, creating a family atmosphere and various other activities.

"Orientation is a fun experience, and it was a pleasure to welcome the newest Bucs to CSU," says Malik Bullard.

One of the highlights of Orientation was Fairplay. New students had the opportunity to get to know each other in exciting and crazy ways.

"The enthusiasm of the new students made Fairplay run smoother than I could have hoped for," comments Eric Gosnell, chairman of the games committee.

"The RAs and hall directors were very pleased with how check-in went with all the new students," says Shannon Wiggins.

The Harbor Cruise, Fairplay, Games Day, Frankie's Fun Park, seminars, workshops, the luau and movies were some of the events of orientation.

New students were provided with many opportunities to learn more about CSU and get to know new people.

"The school did a good job of making us feel at home and setting up a good atmosphere for us," says Frankie Mador.

Time For FUN

"I am so bored!"

The Campus Activities Board refuses to let CSU students think such things. The student activities department is designed to provide fun activities for resident students and commuters. Some of the activities that are provided include Orientation, mallruns, midnight bowling, Frankie's Fun Park, Homecoming, dances, away football games, and much more.

Tressa Harrington says, "I really enjoy the midnight bowling!"

We are not bored here at CSU, and as Howard Brown, assistant director of student activities, says, "CSU has the best thing going!"

Class of

Silas Garrison was named emeritus professor of English, and Dolores Jones, assistant professor of speech and communications, was presented the university's "Excellence in Teaching" award during graduation ceremonies May 22. Charleston Southern awarded 340 degrees to its third largest graduating class.

Patricia Willis, executive director of the BellSouth Foundation, gave the commencement address and received the university's first Distinguished Service Award.

Holly Roberts, senior class president, gave the annual address to the seniors.

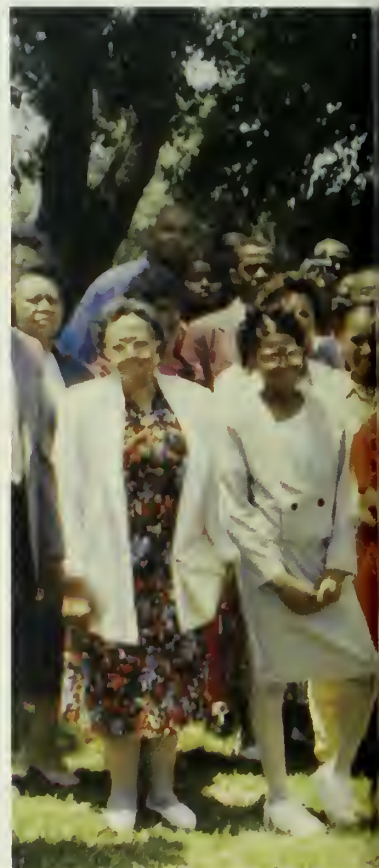

The graduation invocation was given by The Rev. Dr. Robert Mellichamp, pastor of Beaverdam Baptist Church in Cassatt. His son, Randy, was among the graduating seniors.

The benediction was given by The Rev. Henry C. Simmons, director of missions for the Florence Baptist Association. His son, Bryan, is a CSU graduate and his son, Gregg, received a degree during the ceremonies. Gregg is the first non-Hispanic to earn the university's Spanish Award.

The John Barry Christian Scholar Award was presented to Angela Taylor of Myrtle Beach. The award is given each year to the graduating senior who has achieved the highest scholastic ratio and, in the judgment of the faculty, shows the greatest promise for future scholarship.

The Myrtle E. Hamrick Award was presented to April Brown of Charleston. This award is given each year to a woman graduate who possesses the most ladylike traits.

The Rev. and Mrs. Henry C. Simmons congratulate their son, Gregg, after he receives his degree.

Ernest Hood's daughter entertains graduates as they are lining up for graduation ceremonies.

Natalie Dunn's family and friends rented a bus to travel from North Augusta, S.C., for her graduation.

Recreational sports are very much a part of CSU campus life.

They include everything from football, to basketball, volleyball, baseball, running, walking, swimming and more.

The University Park pool has provided a new recreational outlet for CSU students.

Swimming and even water volleyball are now a part of the activities on the CSU campus.

The track is a popular place, attracting runners and walkers daily. Angela Martin, a runner, says, "I find exercise as a stress reliever, and it makes me feel better about myself."

The basketball courts, volleyball pit, and the football practice field are a few of the areas where students can find recreational activities. The CSU campus provides many areas where students can participate in intramurals or just get a group of friends together for a little fun.

Coming to America

When students come to college, they always expect to learn a little more about life, about themselves, and about other people. For some of CSU's students, learning about an entirely new culture is a part of their expectation.

This year, CSU is home to 29 undergraduate and graduate students from 11 different countries.

Nearly two-thirds of the international students are members of one of our athletic teams.

International Student Services is directed by Barbara Mead, assistant dean of students. During this year Mead has been involved in a cooperative program with Johnnie Keyes, multicultural affairs director, and Brenda Hensley, student activities director.

According to Hensley, "We want to involve students in a monthly recreational or educational meeting which will make students aware of differences and teach them to respect these differences."

This new multicultural program will allow students to see differences among students from out of the country, out of state, and even the differences between students of different counties in South Carolina.

Mead says, "While there are distinct and unique differences in cultures and customs among nationalities from which we can gain knowledge, there are similarities as well. Even one understands the universal language of a smile. We should attempt to warmly receive our friends from afar, make our homes their home, while we learn valuable lessons from one another."

Valerie O'Donnell, Jacqui Califano and Manette Cone prepare drinks for the thirsty Bucs during the first home football game.

Resident Assistants spent many hours preparing for the return of the dorm students.

Behind the Scenes

Charleston Southern has always stressed the importance of service to others. There is one group, however, who does not always get the recognition they deserve. The "behind the scenes" workers are often overlooked.

Each and every day at CSU, the workers in the cafeteria begin early in the morning and sometimes work until late evening cooking, cleaning, and preparing for the next day.

At the beginning of every fall semester, there are two groups of students who return to school a week early to insure that new freshmen and transfer students feel welcomed during their first year at CSU. The Orientation staff and the Resident Assistants and Hall Directors each give of their time and energy to make fellow Bucs feel comfortable.

Brenda Hensley, student activities director says, "No one sees the Orientation staff who stay up until 2 a.m. making publicity posters or those who get up at 4:30 a.m. to blow up balloons so the campus looks inviting for the new students and their parents."

Along with the Orientation staff, the RAs work for a week at cleaning rooms, getting certified in CPR and decorating the halls for move-in day.

The Women's Auxiliary Advisory Council provides refreshments at every dorm so the new students and parents can take the time to enjoy a cold drink and a sandwich or cookies.

Perhaps least recognized are the many organizations and clubs on campus. The Campus Activities Board works hard at planning and organizing events on campus, but when the time comes to set up and prepare for the event, the board depends on the Greek organizations on campus.

"The Greek fraternities and sororities actually perform much of the heavy labor and are the board's primary resource of help. If it were not for the groups, many of the on campus events would not run as smoothly as they do. They are greatly appreciated," says Hensley.

After

What is it about Charleston that attracts people from all over the state, country, and even the world?

Many of CSU's students are from another state, and once they arrive in Charleston, they are hooked! Maybe

Charleston for the evening and walking around Waterfront Park, eating and spending those late night hours at JoAnn's, Pappy's or Alex's restaurants, and some students prefer to go to Frankie's Fun Park for a

it is the historic homes and land, or the Charleston weather, or perhaps it is the people of Charleston who attract the tourists and new residents.

Students might not always agree on the best thing the city has to offer, but one thing is for sure, there is something special about Charleston.

Comforts of HOME

Resident students experienced change for the better this year. Refurbished housing made life more comfortable for students in Women's North and South.

New furniture and a new computer controlled "energy management system" has improved room comfort in some of the dorms. More improvements are on the way, with plans for a new student center and a refurbishing of the men's dormitories.

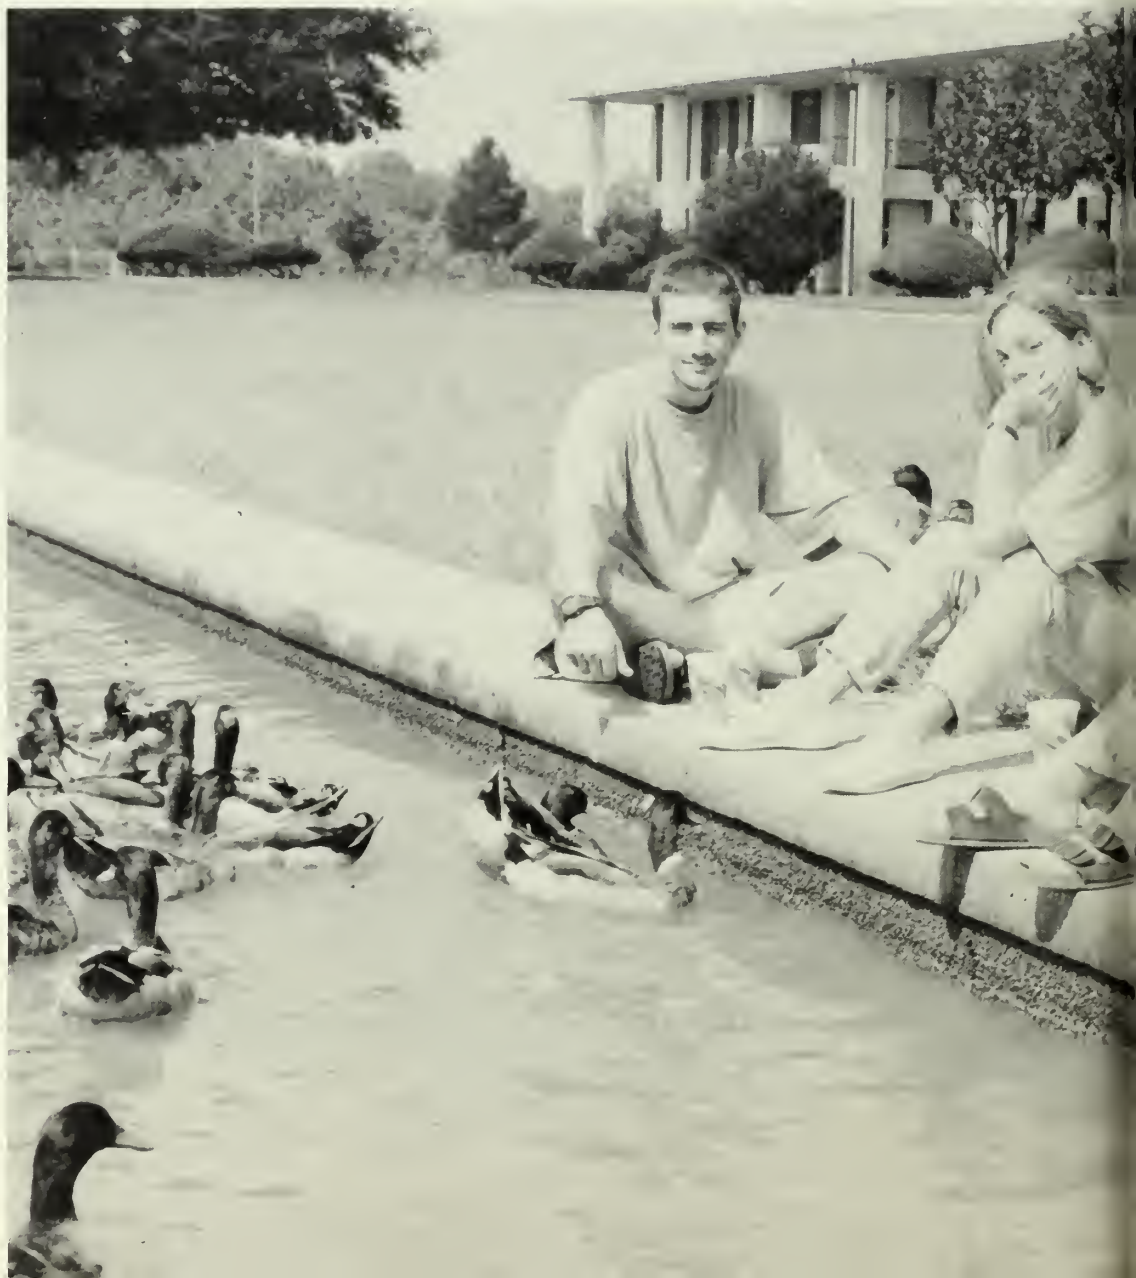

Two centers of activity among students are Littlejohn and Russell Parlors. There, men and women can meet year round.

Junior Erik Stevens, a regular in Littlejohn Parlor says of the scene, "Spades are popular. People sometimes bring televisions and VCRs in here and watch movies. Most people just study and hang out."

The Reflection Pond is as popular as ever for students who are dating or for those who just want to get away and meditate. The roads around campus are sprinkled with morning and evening runners, and a game of basketball is almost always to be found at University Park.

A late night place of choice is the library: it provides quiet surroundings so students can catch up on studies if the dorm is too noisy.

REACHING

Campus Ministries is an essential part of student life at CSU. A variety of things such as Halftime, Vespers, WORD teams, Baptist Young Women, Servants Inc., New Vision, and the One Accord Gospel Choir provide opportunities for spiritual growth.

Campus Ministries helps people build leadership skills and grow closer to Christ. The goals of campus ministries are for students to have the opportunity for Bible study, prayer, Christian fellowship, witnessing opportunities, and a time to "make a joyful noise unto the Lord."

"Campus Ministries is a valuable tool in our quest to see people come to know time that I can get together with my Christian friends and have a great time. We just get together and let Jesus take over," said

OUT

Jesus Christ. I'm glad that I have the chance to be involved in an organization committed to excellence," said Jeff Hickman.

"Campus Ministries is a

D'Anunzio Smith.

"I would hope that the Campus Ministries program at CSU would encourage Christians in their faith and help them to develop a Christ-like attitude in all areas of their life," said Michael Bryant.

"Baptist Young Women provides a time of mission study and spiritual growth for women," said Amy Cashion.

"I enjoy the variety of programs in Campus Ministries because it gives me the opportunity to learn and grow in my faith as a Christian," said Terra Stokes.

Campus Ministries is spreading the love of Jesus around the CSU campus.

Brenda Montgomery assists a young girl with crafts. CSU students, along with Southside Baptist Church, Charleston Baptist Association and Alpha Phi Omega meet with inner-city children on Saturday mornings in the spring.

ON THE GO

"The road less traveled" is definitely not a phrase which can be used to describe the life of a commuter student, for these individuals seem to be constantly traveling between home and school on every major road in the tri-county area!

Yet, despite the reduced amount of time spent on campus, most commuter students feel included in campus life and appreciate the school's efforts to include them in campus activities.

Virginia Phillips, a senior, reflects upon her status as a commuter and says, "Family. That is the word I would use to describe CSU. The staff and fellow students make everyone feel special. There are no stereotypes or prejudices. As a commuter student, I was impressed with this family atmosphere."

Another senior, Kenny Petit, believes, "CSU has provided to me an atmosphere that does not impose inane cliches. The environment of the campus is one which discourages conventional partiality and allows the students to be judged on their intellectual strengths regardless of a student's residential status."

Academics at Charleston Southern University is constantly improving as the school strives to achieve academic excellence.

CSU welcomed some new professors to the faculty this year and improvements have been made to some of the classrooms themselves.

One of the new faces on campus is English professor Cathy Harvey, who received her Ph.D. from Tulane University.

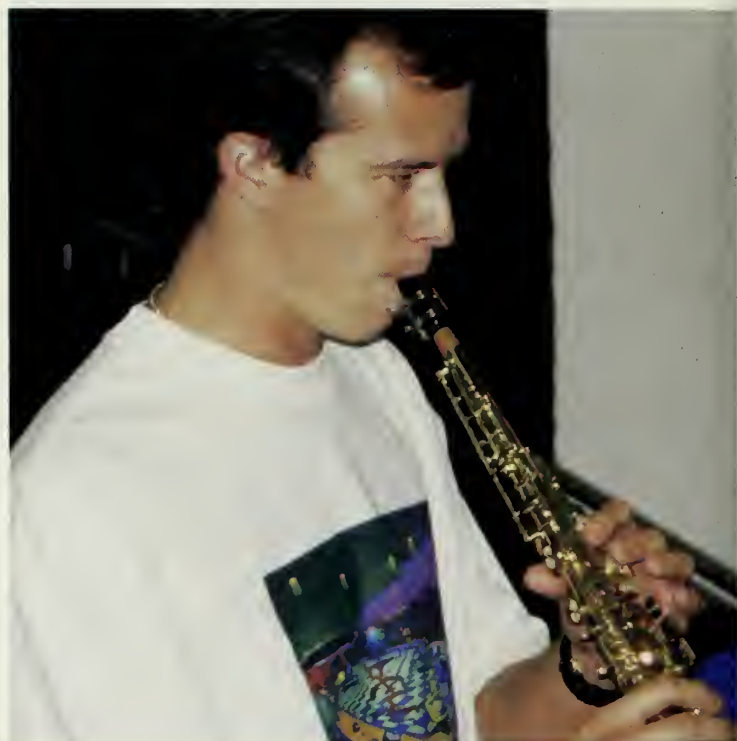

"I'm very excited to be here," she said. "I last taught at the University of Texas at San Antonio; I had a sophomore literature class of 120 students. I like the idea of having smaller classes where I can give individualized instruction to students. Another thing that's tremendous about this school is the camaraderie of the faculty."

CSU has also made improvements to the science labs. All new equipment has been installed in the organic chemistry lab with more renovations on the way for the other labs.

Dr. Clyde Odom, professor of chemistry and chairperson of the department of physical sciences, states that the renovations upon completion will have a total cost of over a half million dollars, but are well worth it. He says CSU's science facilities are going to be "as good as you can find."

CSU

See you after

Perseverance and determination are two distinct words which characterize one-third of Charleston Southern's student body—the Evening College student. These students are at times unequalled in their desire to receive an education.

Dr. Neil Jacobs, a professor in the business department, finds that "Evening College students tend to be more focused and determined to succeed" despite their arduous schedules.

While the Evening College affords many non-traditional students with the chance to earn a degree which will enhance their careers, it also acknowledges that the university must provide a variety of services for these students.

Rob Phillips says, "As a petty officer in the U.S. Navy, CSU caters to my many needs as an Evening College student by providing such services as later operating hours in the business office, library, and bookstore. These late hours enable me to conveniently conduct my school business. Plus, the courses offered in the evening are of the same quality as the day."

Dwayne Stephens, an Evening College student who serves as president of the Evening College Student Advisory Council, endeavors to ensure the council strives "to help build a bridge between Evening College students and the faculty" and administration so that the particular requirements of Evening College students are acknowledged and recognized. The council's input will guarantee that CSU remains committed to the continued betterment of the Evening College program.

REFLECTIONS

During the spring semester, CSU saw many changes.

For the first time ever, the men's basketball team played in the new North Charleston Coliseum, the Buccaneers' new home court.

CSU held its annual Spring Formal on Saturday, April 24 at the Oaks Country Club. The entertainment was provided by Music By Request, and the decorations portrayed the theme of "Under the Sea."

From March 15 until the 18, CSU's campus was filled with competition as Greek Week provided many fraternities and sororities the opportunity to show support for their school and their letters.

The events consisted of Greek Olympics, Spring Fest, the production of the drama department's "The Tower," and the final event, the Toga Party.

Throughout the week, the Greeks were awarded points for their participation, and Gamma Theta succeeded as the 1993 Greek Champions.

Perhaps one of the more unusual and memorable activities in the spring was the Food Fight in which CSU competed against the College of Charleston and Trident Technical College to raise food for the Charleston area. The contest was judged by the weight in pounds that each school donated. Food collection bins, on loan from Wal-Mart on Dorchester Road, were placed all over campus.

Student activities sponsored a competition between all clubs and organizations to see which group could deliver the most food. By the end of the week, Alpha Phi Omega emerged as the winners of the Food Fight by raising 288.75 pounds of the 499 pounds that CSU raised as a whole.

"Our fraternity simply followed one of our three principles; service to others. That is what our organization is all about," comments Cheryl Melton, a member of Alpha Phi Omega.

CSU came in second in the overall competition with Trident Technical College winning first place.

Building Traditions

"Coming Home...The Tradition Begins" was CSU's 1993 Homecoming theme. Homecoming festivities began with a talent show on Oct. 21 which provided CSU students the chance to compete for money and enjoy the entertainment. The winners were: third place, Veridee Lee; second place, Alpha Phi Alpha; and first place, Raymond Hamilton.

The 1993 Homecoming Court contestants were honored at a tea party during the week. On Friday night, Oct. 22, there was a pep rally in the cafeteria during dinner which had a comical twist of role reversal as the football players dressed up like women to compete in a mock Homecoming Queen Contest. It was hilarious and gave everyone, including the football team, a chance to relax before the next day's game.

October 23 was the big game against the University of Alabama-Birmingham which was accompanied by heavy rain showers. The Bucs were defeated 48-20. About 300 blue and gold balloons, provided by Alpha Phi Omega, were released as the Bucs ran onto the field.

During halftime Jeanette Wolf was crowned Homecoming Queen. She said, "I was really surprised I won. I thought for sure a senior would get it." Wolf demonstrated her commitment to supporting the team by cheering in the beginning of the game as well as after she was crowned queen. The other winners were: third runner-up, Jaida Raglin; second runner-up, Cheryl Victa; and first runner-up, Holley Burris.

CSU's Homecoming came to a close with the dance Saturday night. Homecoming was a special time that will be added to everyone's memories of college experiences.

Baseball team improves

Ashley Creel is safe by a long shot as he slides into second base.

After a really tough and disappointing 1992 season, the baseball team finished the 1993 season with 19 wins and 23 losses. Coach Jamie Futrell set out to improve the 12-34 record from '92.

He stated, "The team was very competitive, witnessed by two victories over teams that went to the NCAA Regionals (George Mason and Virginia Tech). I wish we could have kept up the momentum from early on to the latter part of the season."

The team hopes to improve the school record on the most consecutive wins in a season.

Kevin Brown said, "We didn't perform up to our capabilities, but it was a learning experience that will better prepare us for next season."

Tommy Lak finished the season with a .42 batting average and a .991 fielding average. Other hitters such as Ashley Creel and Scott MacK helped the Bulls to this much improved season.

Softball team scores a winning record

Under the coaching leadership of Jack Jordan, the CSU softball team finished the 1993 season with a record of 30 wins, 17 losses and one tie. Senior Bertha Wright led the team in batting with a season average of .408, while Stephanie Schwartz provided speed on the bases and power hitting.

Pitchers Julie Allen and Erika Hale held opponents to 171 runs against CSU's 258 runs.

"The season went well overall, even though we peaked too early," said Allen. "We surprised ourselves when we played better than we were predicted to."

Hale added, "We eventually learned how to play together. Because we were all individuals, it made working as a team difficult."

Hale also said, "Perhaps we lost some games we shouldn't have because of a lack in team spirit and teamwork, but we are looking to improve."

A tough season yields experience

The 1993 CSU tennis team ended the season with some disappointments. The men finished with five wins and 10 losses while the women finished with a record of 4-7.

"We had a very young team," stated team captain Pat Brown. "Even though we were very inexperienced, we started playing well toward the end of the season. The best thing was that we gained some much needed experience."

Captain of the women's team, Caroline Dame said, "The best thing about the season was that the girls stuck together."

Buccaneers hit the links

The 1992-93 men's golf team, coached by Mike Meyer, saw improvement from the previous seasons with many good finishes in tournaments all over the Big South Conference.

The men placed third out of 13 at the CSU Fall Invitational and fourth out of 18 at The Citadel Invitational. Some other big finishes were a third place ranking in the Big South defeated the Tournament and Jason Caron placing 14th in the Rice Planters Invitational in Charleston. According to Jamie Futrell, this is the third biggest amateur tournament in the country.

In the fall of 1993, the Lady Bucs placed third of eight teams in the Longwood Invitational and at the Samford Classic in Destin, Florida. They defeated the College of Charleston and Winthrop for the first time ever in tournament play. CSU finished eighth out of 17 teams, defeating College of Charleston by 15 strokes and Winthrop by seven strokes. Sophomore Liz Schaaf shot a school record with a 77 for the first round of play.

Buccaneers hit the big time

Coach Jon Davis looks on from the sidelines.

The CSU football team, led by Head Coach David Dowd, tied last season's record of 3-8 by defeating Newberry College, Lees-McCrae and Presbyterian College.

To some, this may seem like a "Status Quo" ball team that can't improve, but according to Dowd, it's not. He stated, "We made a 'Quantum Leap' by moving up to the NCAA I-AA division of competition.

"We are playing teams who give as much as 65 scholarships per year. We can only give 10 this year. That is a big gap. We are playing six I-AA teams that outman us."

Another thing Dowd pointed out was that the scoreboard doesn't always tell the tale. During the Towson State game, the Bucs were down 45-0 at the half but came back in the second half to outscore them 14-7. Dowd added, "You can never count our guys out."

The football team worked off the field as well, with the Big Buc/Little Buc program that puts football players in tutorial situations with elementary school children.

Lady Bucs crush foes

The CSU volleyball team finished the 1993 season with some impressive statistics on the conference and national level.

After a fourth place conference finish, CSU came away with 22 wins and 11 losses. Junior Carrie O'Connell finished with a national ranking in blocks per game, while the team as a whole finished 19th nationally in digs per game.

On the conference level, O'Connell finished second in hitting percentage while junior Kim Duncan finished third in assists per game.

The Lady Bucs also saw the coming of a new head coach. Former Head Coach Amir Khaledi opted to become associate coach when CSU needed to hire a full-time head coach. Sue Killian, from the University of Miami (Ohio) was hired to take on the duties of head coach. Killian will also fill the position of head coach for the CSU softball team.

Bucs hit hard times

The Bucs took their lumps this season with one win, 16 losses and one tie, but their character and willingness to press on never tarnished.

The Bucs relied heavily on many new players who didn't have the advantage of assimilating to the heightened level of competition. Coach John Devereux felt that the team might have been overwhelmed by the strong Big South schedule.

Coach Devereux also felt that the players played their hearts out; as the season progressed the competitiveness increased. Looking at stats, improved performance could be seen as the team matured.

Captain Joseph Taranto and transfer Gunnlaugar Einarsson provided leadership to the team and teamed up to contribute most of the goals scored this year. Freshman Brian Burgess started and played impressively almost every minute of every game. In a crosstown battle, freshman Rusty McMakin provided the goal to carry the Bucs to a tie with The Citadel late in the season.

In their first season of play, the women's soccer team finished better than expected. In the Big South preseason poll, the women were picked to finish last of eight teams.

However, the women finished fifth in the conference with a record of 12 wins and five losses, four of which were by one goal.

Miller stated, "We didn't play like a first year team." Head Coach Karrie Miller was named co-coach of the year in the conference while freshman Wendy Ennis ranked second in the conference and fourth in the nation in scoring and was named the Big South Rookie of the Year.

Mary Pipilas and Happy Payne were named to the All Conference team.

The Bucs are running hard and fast

The 1993 men's cross country team finished the season with a very impressive fifth place win in the Big South Tournament.

Senior Patrick Van Boden finished second overall in the five mile event with a time of 26:21, only seven seconds out of first place. Boden was the Bucs' top runner all season long with many top ten finishes.

Other Big South Tournament runners were Matt Kocyba, Lyn Rowland, Jeff Nasternak, Danny Deets, and Bryan Cantrell.

In the women's camp, Jill and Jodie Chodnicki and Karen Cox led the team with many top 20 finishes. Jill Chodnicki finished 12th in the Big South Tournament at Radford University, while Jodie Chodnicki and Cox finished 23 and 24 respectively. Jodie Chodnicki also had two sixth place finishes at the Pembroke Invitational and the Bulldog Invitational.

Jill Chodnicki placed directly behind her sister with a seventh place finish in the Bulldog Invitational. Cox recorded a seventh place finish in the Pembroke Invitational and a 10th place finish in the Bulldog Invitational.

Runnin' Bucs rock the Coliseum

The men's basketball team began the season in the North Charleston Coliseum against Clemson with a disappointing loss, but the rest of the season yielded some impressive ball players.

Clemson transfer Eric Burks broke Darnell Sneed's scoring record in the Coliseum by scoring 37 points against Furman. Burks was named Big South Conference Player of the Week and was ranked first in the conference in steals.

Other leaders like T.L. Latson and Maurice Colburn offered direction to the team. Freshman Jeff Daniels was named Big South Rookie of the Week and received a second place national ranking and held the first place position in the conference in three point percentage.

The Bucs won their first game in the Coliseum against Big South rival Radford on Jan. 24 and broke a school scoring record in the Field House with a 131-

63 win over Warner Southern.

Head Coach Gary Edwards said, "These newcomers have decided to assemble at CSU to make their mark. We have a lot of learning to do, and growing pains will be experienced, but this group will form the nucleus of the finest team this institution has ever put together. I don't know when it will happen, but I do know it will happen."

A new attitude

Charleston Southern University's Lady Bucs, led by new Head Coach Fred Francello, opened their season Dec. 1 at the North Charleston Coliseum with a one point loss to Coker College.

As the season progressed, Captain Chrissy Kelly, along with senior Forward Melissa Johnson, helped to lead the team to their first win over Liberty in CSU's history of women's basketball.

The focus of this year's season was to create a winning team by using a strong sense of work ethic, strong positive attitude, discipline and execution of fundamentals.

Coach Francello has high expectations for the future of our Lady Bucs. "We have the nucleus to become a team that can challenge our Big South rivals!"

Showing their spirit

The CSU cheerleaders firmly backed the Bucs at all the games, motivating fans to get in the school spirit.

New to the coaching staff this year is Heather Clayton. She brought to the university several years of cheerleading experience.

Lee Johnson, in his second year on the squad, says, "my best memory of this year was going to camp and learning the new cheers and stunts. There was real team unity. We came together as a team. I'm looking forward to another year cheering."

Senior Jennifer Rumchak says that the team is "really improving; we're starting to stick together as a team. We have a good coach who is really excited and able to work with us."

Also important to school spirit is CSU's own Buccaneer, who has been entertaining the crowds for years.

This year,

Michael Ritenour is the man underneath the pirate hat. He says the best thing about being the Buccaneer is raising school spirit and cutting up with the crowd. "I enjoy it. It allows me to get away with things."

Rumchak says that "everyone is willing to try and work outside their schedules to make it something special."

Late night chats are a favorite activity in the dorms.

Although some may think the faculty and staff of CSU are set apart from the students, it is not so anymore!

You will see more and more of CSU's employees cheering on the Buccaneers at the athletic events. In fact, some of them get even louder than the students!

The professors not only teach their courses but provide help outside of the classroom and are available just to talk.

Faculty and staff members have their hands full with life outside of campus, but they seem to always find time for the CSU family.

It's all about. . .

As part of Charleston Southern University, students are a vital part of the community.

Going off to college, students experience life on their own apart from Mom and Dad and make Charleston their home-away-from-home. They know where the ATM machines are, where to go for the best buys and where to hang out and eat.

As much money as students put into the community, the community supports the students of CSU.

It's all about. . .

Helping you realize the things you want from life — making what First Federal of Charleston

I've always heard that time flies when you are having fun. Guess it has proven to be true over the last few years. I can't think of the words that would explain anything right now. Just remember the first birthday present I gave you, all of our trips (both taken and talked about),
and how darn lucky we both are. I'll miss you.

Always,

Kristi,
The last four years
have been a challenge,
but challenge builds confidence. It's been hard work, but hard work builds character.
With a good education, confidence and character, you can achieve any goal. Go for everything you want out of life. I love you, I'm proud of you and I'm with you all the way.

Jeff Stilwell

Years from now I'll look back on my days at CSU and remember God's blessing of friendships. I'll laugh and cry over the wonderful memories we made together:

...those "five more minutes" mornings when I would hit the snooze button on my alarm for two hours--and Rachel let me!

...when Susan and I were "sitting" side-by-side at Aviation Avenue Cinemas!

...when Michelle's alarm blared music, yet she lay there dead asleep. I yelled and screamed and even threw a couple of dirty socks! Zzzzz...

...those Thursday nights in Steph's room with my P.M.S. (Pamper My Self) sisters--Lisa, Carrie, Stephanie and Lorie. We'd watch videos of "90210" and "Melrose Place," paint our nails, shop in Steph's closet and compare Bath & Body Works products!

...the crazy folks in University Relations who still took me in even though I'm "really not from Hawaii!"

All of my friends have been a special part of my life and have earned a special place in my heart! Y'all have made my college experience one I'll never forget! I love you, guys!

*Because of Him,
Cheryl Lynn A. Victa*

P.S. Thanks for letting me hang out with you, Brian!

*"I thank my God every time I remember you."

Volume 29 of the Charleston Southern University Cutlass was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. Press run was 1200 copies.

The 1993-94 yearbook staff created the theme "It's all about you" and designed the cover, which features gold foil stamping. The book is printed on 100 pound enamel paper.

All type was set in Bookman. Layouts were designed by the yearbook staff.

Student, faculty and staff portraits were taken by Candid Color Photography of Woodbridge, Va. Athletic team shots were provided to the yearbook staff by the CSU sports information office.

Candid photos and athletic action shots were taken by yearbook staff photographers.

Once again, the yearbook staff would like to thank Lisa Pye, CSU's staff writer/photographer, for her photography assistance and Mike Smith, our Taylor representative, for his encouragement and guidance.

The 1994 "Cutlass" was produced on a Macintosh computer using Aldus PageMaker 4.2 and was submitted to Taylor Publishing Company on disk.

Editor's Note

The purpose of the 1994 Cutlass yearbook is to portray a glimpse of Charleston Southern University. Our goal this year was to show that "It's all about you." The staff decided on this theme because our school is for the students. Through the pictures and the stories, I hope that you were able to understand this more clearly.

I would like to thank Uncle Mike for all his great advice and encouragement. There were many times during computer crises that you were so understanding and helpful. You're the best at calming us and reassuring us that you would take care of everything, and you always do!

I would also like to thank the Cutlass staff and volunteers. You all have worked hard this year. There were many new members on the staff, but you all seemed ready to learn and help when you were needed.

Among these students is Jeff Stilwell. Thanks Jeff for all your hard work on the sports pages. You were a wonderful asset to the staff and we're really going to miss you.

Also, thanks to Cheryl Victa for everything you've done. I am always amazed by your great ideas and creativity. You're a great friend as well. We're going to miss you so much.

Cheryl and Jeff, you will be in our thoughts and prayers. I guess there is life after yearbook!

Finally, but definitely not least, thank you Jan for always being patient with us. I have learned so much from working with you. You are always there to solve our problems. I hope that we have not driven you too crazy!

In Christ,
Michelle Mills
editor

It's all about you

As students at Charleston Southern we make up a part of the university. But more importantly, we are important as individuals inside the Big U.

Many students never realize that without them the university could not exist. Each organization and office on the campus is made up of individuals who have come from a variety of backgrounds and have different approaches and reactions to life.

Our campus is one that is composed of those who are striving to earn a degree so that they can make a difference in the community. Others, however, come to CSU in the hopes of finally figuring out what it is they actually want out of life.

From the university, we take a degree which has been earned, just as people before us did and the ones who will come after us will. Equally important is what we give to the university, the community and to the individuals and friends that we see every day.
